

GLACIER CLUB UNVEILS DISCOVERY PACKAGE

DURANGO, COLO. (September 3, 2015) – With the colors of fall and the white snow of winter on the horizon, Glacier Club—the exclusive mountain sanctuary just outside historic Durango—is offering privileged access to a limited number of outside guests.

Beginning immediately and available through 2016, the “Discovery Package” is a way for interested guests to enjoy all the amenities currently available only to community members for a limited time. These include tennis, fitness facilities, pool, pond fishing, and hiking trails, as well as golf on the existing Arthur Hills-designed Signature Course.

A three-day/two-night stay including use of any and all club facilities, one round of golf for four, and dinner for four in the Clubhouse dining room (a $250 value) costs $1,250 per package. This special discovery opportunity is also available in winter with a choice of personalized winter activities and snow-sports.

Opened in 2004 and with the soaring San Juan Mountains as a backdrop, the 1,000-acre Glacier Club sits next to three million acres of National Forest. The community offers a full, four-season menu of activities both indoors and out, plus a casual, Western-based lifestyle that is both unpretentious and respectful of the environment.

Majestic views of surrounding mountains, lakes, and streams are enhanced by the presence of elk, golden eagles, deer, hawks, and much more native wildlife. Certified by the Audubon Society, Glacier Club takes great pride in its environmental stewardship initiatives.

With three nine-hole courses already complete, and a fourth underway, the golf offers a unique combination of scenery and challenge. The Golf Academy runs a full schedule of clinics while also offering private lessons and effective programming including TPI-based assessments and state-of-the-art Flightscope Launch Monitor Technology.

It is rare that a private community opens its gates to the public. But as Glacier Club prepares for the new year with a host of new amenities and residential options in the works, this is an unprecedented opportunity to enjoy nature at its finest while enjoying sports, scenery, and seclusion in one of the most beautiful corners of the country.
